

FAMILY CONVERSATION GUIDE

BOOKMARKS

In many homes that don't have a lot of money, things like books and other tools for learning can be an extra luxury. At a recent book giveaway, a student in a local school asked, "is this my forever book?" Owning books helps kids find a love of reading and bookmarks can make reading even more exciting. They are an extra fun item to get when choosing a book at a book drive or other event.

Quick fact:

Students who have books at home have higher test scores at school.¹

Consider this quote:

"Sometimes, small things lead to great joys."

- Shai Agnon, Jewish author

Discussion questions:

- What do you love most about books?
- What is your favorite book and why?
- How have books helped you build your curiosity?
 - Why do you think reading is important?
 - Once you can read, what else can you do?
- How do you hope the student who gets your bookmark will feel when they receive it?

100,000
— Acts of Service —
SERVE TODAY. SERVE TOMORROW.

This year, JVC challenges our community to engage in 100,000 acts of volunteer and leadership service to commemorate 100 years of The Associated. Learn more at jvcbaltimore.org/100K.

Center for Jewish Education and Jewish Volunteer Connection are agencies of The Associated

BB&T

100 The Associated
Jewish Federation of Baltimore

SOURCES

¹ <https://psmag.com/social-justice/books-home-strongly-linked-academic-achievement-82144>